Director of Music Report
September 2023 committee meeting

We have had some significant events during the last month which has continued the growth and development of the band in several areas.

1. New members: we welcomed several new members to the band who have indicated they would like to stay with us, however several of them seem to be missing in action, it may be a good idea for the committee to follow them up and check on them.
2. We have purchased a number of new charts to work on and they will be added to our repertoire as time allows.
3. Constitution: this is a significant and well overdue revision which has finally made it into law. Not only does it streamline and represent our band better, but it now clears the table for the committee to get onto other jobs. As such I think the committee needs to start empowering and using the Sub Committees that were discussed to further the efforts of the band.
4. State contest: from the bands perspective it was impressive, I believe we played better, were far more relaxed and confident in our performance and showed further development in our musical skills, unfortunately, the scores did not reflect that, and I must confess to being very disappointed in the scoring. However, for only our second time out, it was a great effort. I would like to bring special mention to Jarrad, who put a huge effort in to looking after the music, being the band contact on the day and looking after the staging requirements for me.

I will be collating and releasing the feedback forms from the contest and will be using that information to compile a letter to the band association regarding the results and gradings etc, I believe it is incumbent upon me to represent the players views to the association.

Ahead of us lies a busy last quarter as there seems to be a general enthusiasm for live performances returning post covid.
